Editorial

The Journal of Architectural Research and Studies (JARS) is honored to publish the second issue of volume 15 dedicated to architectural research and studies. This peer-reviewed journal was a collection of recent research developments which aimed to combine the various perspectives of in a very wide range of the built and social environmental dimensions from theoretical aspects to application-based studies. This issue contains 10 articles from both architecture and planning dimensions which can be listed as the following topics:

- The Study of Relationships Between Street Vendors and Spatial Characteristics of Urban Area: A Case Study of Ramkhamhaeng Area, Bangkok;
- The Study on Relationship between Social Capital and Site Potential: Case study of Thakhlong Municipality, Pathumthani;
- Modified Sieve Mapping Technique for Site Selection of Housing Projects in Thai-Malaysia Border Cities;
- Chronological Study of Physical Elements of Housing Estate Development Project in Bangkok Metropolitan Region;
- The Wisdom of Trang shophouse;
- Living with Water – Decoding the Local Ways of Living in the Central Region Basin of Thailand;
- Design Guidelines for Model Educational Building for Energy Conservation According to Green University;
- Innovation Ecosystem: A Case Study of Kluaynamthai Innovative Industries District;
- The New Public Learning Environment: The Paradigm Shifts in Learning and its Impact on Program, Space, and Architecture of Contemporary Knowledge Center;
- Numerical Simulation of Moisture Transfer Behaviors in Residential Walls in Hot and Humid Region.

Furthermore, the book of “Ten Canonical Buildings 1950-2000” written by Peter Eisenman, was also reviewed by Associate Professor Santirak Prasertsuk and included in this issue. We would like to thank all the reviewers for their excellent work and the authors for their contribution to our journal over the years. Furthermore, we are grateful to our editorial staffs for their continued advice and supports.

We expect that JARS will soon be indexed with Scopus which will provide a higher platform for the authors and the readers, with a comprehensive overview of the most recent developments in architectural research and studies. The last but not least, we trust you will again enjoy this issue and wish you all a Happy New Year 2019.
