Editorial

We would like to present, with great pleasure, the first issue of volume 15 of our Journal of Architectural Research and Studies (JARS). This peer-reviewed journal of a biannual basis was envisioned to represent recent research developments in a very wide range of aspects of the built and social environments from theoretical aspects to application-based studies. This issue contains 10 articles from both architecture and planning dimensions which can be listed as the following topics:

- A Study of the Importance of Personal Interests Concerning on Urban Planning: Case Studies in Kyoto City, Japan;
- Public Opinions of Residents in Bangkok's Central Business District Towards Environmental Management in the Bangkok Comprehensive Plan of 2013;
- Sustaining Road Safety for Campus Town Development: Case Study of Thammasat University (Rangsit Campus);
- Social Vulnerability and Urban Risk Assessment to Disaster: A Case Study of Udonthani Province;
- The Role of the Planning and Architecture Design of Religious Buildings After The Earthquake;
- Spatial Behavior in Creative Workplace: Mapping Creative and Innovative Behavior in Office Environment;
- Transformation and Reconstruction of Low-Income Housing: A Case Study of Bang Phli New Town, Samutprakarn Province;
- Comparative Study of Air Exchange Rates in A High-Rise Residence by Using Both Tracer Gas Dilution and Fan Pressurization Methods;
- The Experiment of Heat Transfer in Material Block Made from Agricultural Waste Integrated by Cement;
- Southern Buddhist Monasteries: Typology of Buddhist Monasteries Architectures in Takbai, Narathiwat Province and The Observations on Function and Architectural Configuration in Local Society and Culture Context.

The topic of "The Review of Legal Issues Related to the Impacts of Online Vacation Rental Platforms (OVRPs) on Vacation Condominium Rentals and the Hotel Industry in Thailand" was reviewed by Dr.Parichart Bootvong and Mr.Than Dendoung. Furthermore, the book review of "Studio Mumbai: Inspiration and Process in Architecture" which was also reviewed by Assistant Professor Nirandorn Tongaroon and included in this issue.

We thank all of you who have kindly continually supported and contributed to our journal over the years. We are grateful to the authors, external reviewers of the manuscripts and editorial staffs for their continued advice and supports and finally, we trust you will again enjoy this issue.

Associate Professor Pawinee IAMTRAKUL, Ph.D.
